What's this?

GRM fosters leaders who stands with the people from struggles to development.

GRM is a doctoral program* which fosters PhDs who can assist emerging/developing countries and work with the local people to understand their culture and context and help them find solutions to their struggles. GRM provides interdisciplinary education, integrating Science, Engineering and Global Studies. Participants of the program will gain strong support and incentives in promoting integrated multicultural societies around the world.

*This is the five-year doctoral program to be taken as a sub-major course.
