

RECONSIDERING INVESTMENT LAW IN THE FACE OF A CHANGING WORLD

Hybrid Online &
Face-to-face Conference!

The fight against climate change should now be the top priority for all countries in the world. As a result the oil, gas and extraction industries will be facing significant measures by national governments and international organisations which could lead to the expropriation and other unfair treatment; in other words lead to breaches of already established trade and investment agreements. At the same time, rising gas and oil prices lead to financial burdens on citizens around the globe. We will discuss the interaction and tension between these issues, with a particular focus on Japan.

3 DECEMBER 2021

Friday, 16:40~18:10 JST
Doshisha University's Imadegawa Campus,
Ryoshinkan Bld.,
Room RY409

GLASGOW
COP26

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Prof. Dr. Nikos Lavranos, LL.M

Secretary-General of the European Federation for Investment Law and Arbitration

Lecture in English :
Interpretation in Japanese

Advanced registration required via the above QR code:
Deadline: 16:00, on Wednesday, the 1st of December

SPEAKER & CONFERENCE COORDINATOR

Drs. ing. Eco Hamersma

Ph.D. Candidate, Doshisha University

The rise of China and its Digital Silk Road is changing investment regimes around the world. In this regard, climate change is not the only man made development poised to upend the status quo. We will be looking at one particular development in one example country, Rwanda, to gain a deeper understanding of this aspect of the Chinese Belt and Road Initiative.

SPEAKER & INTERPRETER

Satomi Mizoguchi

Ph.D. Candidate, Doshisha University

A look at the influences on the post-war Indonesian economy by the flow of private sector activities of 19th century small Japanese businesses, 20th century Zaibatsu and the cooperation between the financial and military industries, will be the final topic of our tour of international investment.